

Natasha Holmes, violoncello

Natasha has played Romantic, Contemporary and Baroque music in The English Chamber Orchestra, City of London Sinfonia, Music Projects London and Norwich Baroque. She was a member of the first British chamber orchestra to tour in Siberia. She has made original recordings of birdsong together with her cello playing in the forests of England. Natasha also teaches asylum seekers English and gives talks on Historic Costume.

Pavlo Beznosiuk, violin

With a 40-year career spanning music from Mediaeval Europe to contemporary film scores, pioneering the use of Renaissance violins and Lira da Braccio, by way of a globe-trotting career as soloist, chamber musician, concertmaster and director, Pavlo Beznosiuk is one of the UK's most eclectic violinists, who also recently starred on a Radio Show with his unique choice of classical/prog/rock/jazz.

Rachel Byrt, viola

Born in Wales, Rachel studied at the Guildhall, London and Hanns Eisler Hochschule, Berlin. Rachel is member of Britten Sinfonia, and guests with Les Siècles, Paris, Aurora and Academy of St Martin in the Fields. As a historical instrument specialist, she performs with London Handel Players, Gabrieli Consort and Players, In Echo and I Fagiolini. On viola d'amore, Rachel has performed for the BBC, at the Wigmore Hall and with Instruments of Time and Truth, based in Oxford, where she lives.
